Dear Board of Police Commission Members:

The College of Nursing recently launched its own Bachelor of Science in Nursing Program with 6 sites across the province in Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Ile a la Crosse, La Ronge and Yorkton opening in 2014. Each of these communities has differing health issues and social determinants that make a difference in how our students engage and learn with the people they serve. Given the scope of our programming we have begun to work with different School Divisions across the province, which Commissioner Martel is very familiar with and supportive in his jurisdictions.

We recently had the privilege to meet with Chief Weighill and Deputy Chief Chatterbok which was facilitated by Commissioner Vera Pezer. The intent of this meeting was to learn how nurses and police officers might work together in support of safe, healthy communities. This meeting occurred because we observed a high profile presence of the Saskatoon Police Service at the High School Student PowWow on the University of Saskatchewan campus in June, 2013. Commissioner Pezer explained the extensive outreach of the police within the community and schools, which mirrors our own learning in nursing. She agreed to approach Chief Weighill about a meeting.

It is important to share that meeting with the police is not the usual interprofessional collaboration within the health sciences. Perhaps our first lesson was how little we knew or understood about the service the police provide to this city and the province. I want the Commission to know that Chief Weighill not only met with us but he has provided leadership beyond what we ever imagined. After two meetings he facilitated a presentation to the Saskatchewan Association of Chiefs of Police and further assisted us to meet with representatives from this group to plan a strategy for learning and working together.

Deputy Chief Chatterbok became a co-investigator on a grant application and several of the forces and the RCMP wrote letters of support. Our grant was to fund a strategic planning meeting between nursing and police to consider mutually beneficial needs as part of our training and our community services. The title of our grant was Linking Learners with Leaders Where They Live (L⁴): An Interprofessional Strategy for Safe, Healthy Communities. While we did not receive the funding, our application marked the first time that police and health services worked together in terms of prevention rather than the more traditional approach to corrections and forensics.

On January 7, 2014 nursing and police services met as a provincial team. It was an outstanding experience! In reflection, six months ago we as nurse educators had no relationship with this group of professionals yet we have very similar experiences and concerns within the communities and for the people we serve. Today, we are together talking and planning about how we can teach our students, combine resources within schools and communities and build an interprofessional team that is a model for the province and the country. Our common goal is for well-being within our communities. To achieve this goal demands an acknowledgement of social determinants that impact safety and health. We have learned that police services in Saskatoon and across the province are leading in building safe, healthy communities. It is our privilege to become part of their team and to learn together.

It is the leadership of Chief Weighill and Deputy Chief Chatterbok who have been willing to think differently and invest time and foresight that has brought our disciplines together. This has been truly an inspiring experience. Our city and province has little understanding of the full definition of police service. I am not sure that the officers actually appreciate the full extent of their leadership in working towards healthy communities. It is my hope that together we can combine our strengths in support of initiatives that will lead to safe, healthy communities. A beginning step has been learning and understanding with individuals who are willing to think differently about our professional roles and responsibilities.

Thank you for the opportunity to share our collaboration. We look forward to working with the Saskatoon Police Services in 2014.

With respect and admiration,

Re: Cst. Seidel

To Whom It May Concern:

Today at approx 10:53 am I was pulled over and issued a ticket for "driving while using electronic communication device" at the corner of 33rd and Valens drive. I told the officer that I was using my phone to dial a number so it would connect to my blue tooth in my vehicle. My phone does not have hands free dial.

As a Peace Officer with a federal department I understand and appreciate that we all have a job to do and have to make tough decisions every day. I also understand the importance of education and the impact it can have on people. Unfortunately for me today my experience was a very costly lesson to learn and not solely educational!

That said, I also had my 3 year old son and infant son in the car with me. My son wanted to see the "policeman" so I rolled down the back window to give him a chance to see the officer better and to say hi. Officer Seidel spoke very kindly to my child and even gave him a sticker shaped like a badge upon returning to my car to issue my ticket. I cannot tell you enough how much of an impact this kind gesture had on my son. When we arrived at preschool (where I was headed to drop him off when I was pulled over), my son proudly marched up to his teachers to show him what the nice policeman had given him and proceeded to tell everyone throughout the day that he talked to a policeman and got a "badge sticker".

I believe in the importance of recognizing good behavior and wanted to write to commend Officer Seidel for being very kind, informative and professional while carrying out the duties of his often tough and unappreciated career choice. These small acts of community outreach are so important and go a long way in teaching our youngsters that Officers of the law are not only deliverers of bad news but also there to help when you need them.

Bet you thought this was going to be a complaint you would have to address!

Stay safe.

Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays,

Melissa Budge

Dear Chief Weighill,

This letter and the cookies are a small thank you from the management and staff of Insightrix Research Inc. We left the cookies on the front desk.

Over the past year, the police have responded to a number of false alarms in the middle of the night at our business. On another occasion, the police responded to an employee incident where we were concerned about an employee's personal safety. The officers who responded carefully inspected the premises before giving an all clear.

Each and every time, the attending officers have been patient, courteous and thorough. We greatly appreciate your assistance and efforts.

A Merry Christmas to each and every member.

Yours truly,

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter in regards to an accident I was involved in on Thursday Dec. 5 (accident case # 13-113766)

I really appreciated the help Constable Fidyk gave me at the scene, immediately following the accident. He was very professional in the handling of the situation and quite congenial in the manner in which he dealt with me personally.

Being both professional and personable are, I believe, two valuable attributes for a policeman to possess and Constable Fidyk is an excellent example of that, and a credit to the Saskatoon Police Service.

Good afternoon,

I wanted to send a note of appreciation to the 911 dispatcher and the two officers who responded to my apartment building in the early hours (between 3-4am) of December 17th, 2013. I live at ██████████ had called 911 to report loud screaming and thumps coming from apartment ██████. When the officers arrived (very quickly I might add), they really had no idea what they would be walking in to (as is always the case). All they knew was that there was a 911 hang up from that apartment earlier, and a neighbor (me) heard loud screaming and thumps. I buzzed the officers in, and pointed them to the correct apartment. Within a short period of time, they had diffused whatever situation was occurring (violence, mental health) and were speaking very respectfully and calmly to the persons involved. They called EMS to ensure that the woman who was screaming was checked out for any injuries or concerns. After dealing with the situation, they left as quietly as they arrived.

I realize that they were "just doing their jobs", but I wanted to let them know that I really appreciated their interventions. I explained to my young daughter in the morning (she didn't hear anything that happened) that I called the police and explained how important our police officers are in helping people (she's 5 ☺). She thought it was very nice of them to help the neighbors.

Thank you for looking out for all of us... please take care of yourselves and each other, not just at work, but in your personal lives as well. Merry Christmas, Happy Holidays to everyone at SPS...

Thank you again,

Good afternoon,

Dorinda Stahl and I were in Provincial Court this morning for a preliminary inquiry. The matter did not go ahead; defence counsel consented to commit. Cst. Cam Graves and Cst. Christina Holovach were scheduled to testify. A grade 11 class was present to watch the court proceedings. Judge Morgan closed Court and said he would come back to have a discussion with the students and answer questions.

Cst. Graves and Cst. Holovach both stayed for a short discussion/Q&A with the students, the Court and the Crown, in their capacity as drug investigators. We just wanted to send a short note to let you know we were very impressed with both of these officers. We appreciated that they were willing to take time out of their day to engage with the students and offer some insight into the justice system. Both officers were and are excellent representatives of the Saskatoon Police Service, and their respective units. We're sure Judge Morgan was equally impressed and appreciative.

Dear Chief Weighill,

On November 30, 10 of your finest officers partnered with Target Canada at our Saskatoon East store to host our first ever Heroes & Helpers program in Canada.

As a result of this partnership, the Saskatoon Police Service and Target were able to make the holiday season brighter for 10 youths from the Crisis Nursery.

We truly appreciate how Sgt. Lorne Ingram took a remarkable leadership role to ensure that this event was a success for everyone involved!

The affability and professionalism exhibited by your members was exceptional. More importantly, the positive impact and the relationships that they forged with the children will endure well beyond the holiday season.

It's incredibly heartwarming to hear the positive feedback from the children and our team members regarding the impact that the Saskatoon Police has made through its commitment to our community.

On behalf of the entire Target team, thank you.
