Other inappropriate behaviours - that create a hostile or intimidating work environment, sometimes referred to as bullying include:

- hazing
- pranking
- refusing to work with or have contact with a person(s)
- excluding or isolating someone at work
- tampering with or vandalizing someone's personal belongings or work equipment
- spreading malicious or false rumours, gossip, or innuendo
- viewing or displaying explicitly discriminatory, racist or homophobic materials
- viewing or displaying denigrating adornments or rituals associated with religious beliefs
- blocking or interfering with applications for training, leave or promotion
- undermining, deliberately impeding, discrediting or sabotaging a person's work
- intruding on a person's privacy by pestering, spying or stalking
- intimidation
- coercion
- threats of violence

Note: Employees will be held accountable for inappropriate social media posts, phone calls, e-mails or visits to an employee's home, incidents at luncheons, and/or after work socials, that occur outside of City property or work hours, if the issue originated within the workplace or if the issue is negatively affecting the workplace.

What is not bullying or harassment?

- expressing differences of opinion
- consensual social interaction
- inadvertently saying or doing something that hurts someone else
- offering constructive feedback, guidance or advice about work-related behaviour, including performance reviews
- reasonable actions taken by a supervisor to manage and direct workers or the place of employment

Inappropriate behaviour is often rooted in misunderstandings or stereotypes about people who are different from ourselves. Dialogue and continuous learning usually resolve these issues.

APPENDIX B – CITY OF SASKATOON A04-026 – Respectful and Harassment-Free Workplace Policy

COMPLAINT RESOLUTION PROCESSES

1. Employees have a responsibility to bring concerns to the attention of their supervisor, a manager, or a member of Human Resources when:
 - (a) an employee has suffered from an instance(s) of inappropriate behaviour by another employee;
 - (b) a member of the general public has suffered from an instance(s) of inappropriate behaviour by employees; or
 - (c) an employee has suffered from an instance(s) of inappropriate behaviour by a member of the general public.
2. It is recommended that complainants report the issue(s) as soon as possible so that the City of Saskatoon can promptly investigate and attempt resolution. The time limit for filing a complaint under this Policy is twelve (12) months from the alleged incident of inappropriate behaviour. Exceptions may be made in extenuating circumstances, with the approval of the Chief Human Resources Officer.
3. The supervisor, manager or member of Human Resources will meet with the Complainant to review and document the inappropriate behaviour using the Complaint Intake Form (see Appendix C) and the complaint will be investigated.
4. Complainants and respondents will be informed of the findings of the investigation.
5. Selection of informal or formal resolution processes is on a case-by-case basis and will be evaluated based on the following criteria:
 - (a) the number of instances or examples of alleged inappropriate behaviour outlined in the complaint;
 - (b) the seriousness of the allegation;

- (c) the number of individuals involved in the complaint;
- (d) the preferred resolution process of the complainant; and
- (e) Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission best practices, where appropriate.

6. Informal Resolution Processes:

Informal resolution processes will be the first choice in all possible instances. Any of the informal processes described in this Policy may be used at any time and are not required to be utilized in the order set out below:

- (a) In many situations, simply informing the respondent that their behaviour, gesture, action, comment or conduct is unwelcome will resolve the issue. Requesting that the respondent stop the behaviour may be difficult to do, but frequently is the most effective means of eliminating the problem. Employees are therefore encouraged to try to resolve the concern initially with the respondent directly by requesting that the comment, conduct or behaviour stop immediately.
- (b) If the complainant is uncomfortable speaking to the respondent directly or if the complainant speaks to the respondent directly but the inappropriate behaviour continues, the complainant is encouraged to discuss their concerns with any of the following persons:
 - their supervisor, manager, Director, General Manager, or a different manager where appropriate;
 - the Chief Human Resources Officer or their designate.

This will include filling out a Complaint Intake Form (see Appendix C). Any of the persons described in b) above, may, with the permission of the complainant, discuss the complainant's concerns, on a confidential basis with any other person for purposes of advice on how best to proceed.

Exception: Such permission shall not be required when there are issues of safety inherent in the complaint or concern, or if the complaint or concern is so serious or of such a nature that the City is obliged by law to deal with it, or if it is in the best interest of the employee to deal with it.

- (c) The complainant may ask the person referred to in 6 b) to accompany them when the complainant speaks directly to the respondent about the concerns. Alternatively, the complainant may ask the person to address the matter informally with the respondent on behalf of, but not in the presence of, the complainant. Verification from the complainant to have a representative speak on their behalf is required in writing (see Appendix C Complaint Intake Form, section 7).
- (d) At any time, the complainant and the respondent may be encouraged to engage in a process of working out the concerns of the complainant, by discussion among the complainant, the respondent, and a union or association representative (if the complainant or respondent wishes).
- (e) Informal processes could include counselling, education and training, conflict resolution, behavioural guidelines or agreements, or mediation for the parties involved or for the affected workgroup. The complainant and respondent shall be kept informed as to how the concern is being addressed.
- (f) During any of the informal resolution processes, both the complainant and the respondent have the right to consult with and be represented by their union or association representative.
- (g) An informal resolution process may be converted to a formal resolution process (or vice versa) if it is appropriate to do so in the circumstances, or steps may be condensed if appropriate in the circumstances.
- (h) If the informal resolution process has not satisfactorily resolved the issue for the complainant, and upon the recommendation of the Chief Human Resources Officer, the complaint may go to a formal resolution process.

7. Formal Resolution Process:

- (a) Complaints deemed to require a formal resolution process shall be submitted in writing to the Chief Human Resources Officer.

- (b) An investigation shall be undertaken by such internal person or external person as may be appointed by the Chief Human Resources Officer. The decision to use an external investigator will be based on:
 - (i) factors within the complaint, including but not limited to the seriousness of the allegations;
 - (ii) internal staffing capacity;
 - (iii) the presence of a real or perceived conflict of interest if the investigation is conducted internally.
- (c) When required for purposes of investigating the complaint, taking corrective action with respect to the complaint, or when required by law, the respondent will see the complainant's statement. The complainant will see the respondent's statement. Witness statements will not be shared with the complainant or respondent.
- (d) The investigator, upon completion of the investigation, shall provide a written report of findings with respect to the complaint to the Chief Human Resources Officer. The findings of the report shall then be provided in writing to the complainant and the respondent. Witnesses are not entitled to investigation results or complaint details unless the disclosure is necessary for the purpose of investigating allegations.
- (e) The General Manager or City Manager in consultation with the Chief Human Resources Officer, shall determine, in a timely manner, the actions to be taken as a result of the findings of the investigator.
- (f) Appropriate actions as a result of a formal investigation may include counselling, education and training, conflict resolution, behavioural guidelines or agreements, mediation, or progressive discipline for parties involved or for the affected workgroup. The goal of this stage of the process is to bring closure to the complaint process and to repair or restore the workplace to a respectful and productive work environment.
- (g) A formal resolution process may be converted to an informal resolution process (or vice versa) if it is appropriate to do so in the circumstances, or steps may be condensed if appropriate in the circumstances.
