About SAULTEAUX FIRST NATION

Saulteaux First Nation is part of the larger Ojibwa or Chippewa tribe residing in the Northern United States. The word ‘Saulteaux’ is a French translation for ‘people of the rapids’ and relates to their original settlement location near a waterway. Originally, Saulteaux First Nation people settled around the Northern Great Lakes region in Ontario. The soil conditions and short growing season was not conducive to farming, and as a result, the Saulteaux people elected for a hunting and trading lifestyle with European settlers in the area. Due to expansion of the fur trade, a portion of the Saulteaux tribe traveled west and settled in Saskatchewan. They remained on the edges of the parkland and ventured into the prairies only to hunt buffalo.
