URBAN WITH A PRAIRIE HEART
DOWNTOWN

We are located on Treaty 6 territory and the homeland of the Métis. We pay our respect to the First Nation and Métis ancestors of this place and reaffirm our relationship with one another.

On Treaty 6 Territory and the Homeland of the Métis, the Downtown banks of the South Saskatchewan River have also been a traditional centre of commerce for Indigenous peoples. Earning the title “Hub City” during the early 20th century, Saskatoon continues to be the centre of Saskatchewan’s economic activity. 900,000 people live within a 2.5 hour drive, and come ‘to the city’ for shopping and services regularly.

Today we are one of Canada’s youngest cities, with growing technology and life sciences sectors adding to our more traditional resource-based and manufacturing economies. Venture capital investments in the first half of 2019 topped $32 million in Saskatchewan, with much of that investment happening right here. This city offers a mix of economic diversity, low business costs, a high quality of life and a sense of community that make it a perfect place for businesses and people to thrive.

Message From the Mayor and Downtown Partners

Charlie Clark, Mayor

Downtown is where we live out so much of the story of Saskatoon. The beautiful South Saskatchewan River runs alongside the Downtown, connecting people who have lived on these lands over thousands of years. Business and culture come together here, showing the world our prairie grit and ingenuity. We’re an ambitious and resilient city that punches above our weight and is willing to take on any challenge that’s before us. We have a strong vision for our Downtown, and we’re excited that you’re joining us on this journey.

Brent Penner, Executive Director, Downtown Saskatoon

Downtown is the genuine heart of our city. Downtown contains landmarks, distinctive features, historic areas, and provides a unique sense of place. It is home to the performing and visual arts, boutique shopping, authentic restaurants, colourful events and festivals, and great hotels. In addition to being a key cultural and business hub, Downtown is a neighbourhood full of people who live and work here every day. It’s a vibrant, exciting place with a wonderful history, full of promise with a bright future ahead.

Todd Brandt, President & CEO, Tourism Saskatoon

To capture the essence of a destination, visitors understand that you must seek out its centre. Saskatoon’s Downtown is filled with a diverse mix of experiences, from festivals and concerts to outdoor adventures. It is a place where you can discover the authentic soul of the city by stepping into one of our first class farm-to-table restaurants, experience rich Indigenous history and culture, modern art and prairie heritage — all within the heart of our city.

Alex Fallon, President & CEO, SREDA

A city’s energy is best expressed by its downtown. For Saskatoon, that is a powerful alchemy of culture, community and optimism. Where else can you find thriving businesses just steps from tree-lined river paths, modern art next to natural prairie landscapes? Downtown Saskatoon offers everything you need, from dawn to dusk, culture to commerce. It’s not just the heart of our city, but also the meeting place for minds and the backbone to a thriving arts and food scene. There’s no better place in the world to grow.

#roomtobreathe

Even in the heart of our city, nature is never far away. The river that runs through Downtown and the green, publicly accessible corridor that flanks it are a source of great pride for our citizens.

After traveling for seven years and living in several cities, I came home to Saskatoon to take a breath to decide what to do next — and stayed. I appreciate the pace, the open spaces, and the support of a community that cares about me. It's nice to not feel the hustle, the rush to the next thing that happens in bigger cities.

I love driving, but I don't like car commuting. I walk or bike to and from work on Broadway, and it's a relaxing, scenic commute, a moment to decompress at the end of the day. I love the trails on the river, and do lots of mountain biking. It's easy to get a 20k ride in across the bridges.

The students in the Ecoquest Experiential Grade 8 Program recently met around a campfire just out of the shadow of the Bessborough Hotel on a snowy December afternoon and were greeted by a fox. A rare interaction of natural and urban elements that most mid-sized cities will not experience.

– Tyler Rittinger, Ecoquest Teacher

I want to be close to work, and I didn't want to have to buy a car in my first year in Canada. I was looking for more space, and loved the connection with nature you get in Saskatoon's Downtown. I had an offer in Toronto as well, but I chose Saskatoon because of the lower cost of living and because Saskatoon is less crowded. I love the clean air here.

#spacetogrow

We have bold plans for Downtown Saskatoon including new public transit corridors, an entertainment district and a new central library. Now is the time to invest in our future.

Concept for 23rd Street from City Centre Plan

You can work in the hub of the city without the steep price tag!

We see a city that is keeping its youth and with that an opportunity is available to Saskatoon to enhance the vibrancy of their downtown by creating a live, work and play environment that you see in other urban centers.

We have responded to that opportunity by creating Saskatchewan's first mixed use development offering innovative and unique architecture as well as world class indoor and outdoor amenities that the workforce of Saskatoon has been waiting for.

EVP Investment & Development,

It would have been more economical to knock down the old building and start from scratch. We decided that we wanted to preserve our heritage. Our building at 301 1st Ave N is a real gem. It will be an amazing event centre space. There are so many windows, and the warmth of historic wood beams and brick give this gem a special character that will put it in a category of its own. In addition, we're on the edge of the warehouse district and we hope this building serves as a catalyst to the rest of the district.

– Gayle MacDonald, Legacy Land, Inc;

A higher density will help bring downtown alive, and we're excited to design a landmark building available for rent that is right on the river. Our culture has shifted over the years from a focus on the suburbs to living in more densely populated areas, living in close proximity to friends and going out to do things. People want to go where the people are.

A Downtown event and entertainment district, centred on a new arena and convention centre, will catalyze new development and help ensure that our Downtown remains the centre and heart of the financial, administrative, cultural and commercial activity of the city and region. This transformative project has the potential to create a well-connected district within our Downtown that combines these anchor facilities with high quality public spaces and new opportunities for residential living, offices, dining and retail.

– Brent McAdam,
City Centre Planner, City of Saskatoon

Saskatoon is building a new downtown public library that will continue to fulfill its vision to change lives through community connections, engagement and inclusivity.

A new central library is fundamental to delivering on SPL's vision to change lives through community connections, engagement and inclusivity, and a critical piece of our long-term plan to address the growth of our city and increased service demands. We're excited to deliver a new central library that will be infused with the spirit of our community, demonstrate our commitment to reconciliation and be a source of inspiration and pride for everyone who calls Saskatoon home.

CEO, Saskatoon Public Library

Hybrid electric bus

Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) will make downtown more accessible to residents, with more viable options to get to and from downtown. All the major BRT lines lead downtown. We will have high-frequency, highly reliable service, connecting corridors through the downtown and leading out to other areas in the city.

BRT is a big part of the City's overall growth plan. Across North America, evidence shows that when cities invest in high quality transit and support transit-oriented development, private investment follows. We'll be moving toward a new land use policy and developing zoning districts to allow more intensive development along the BRT corridors.

It's obvious to me why I live here. I can exist entirely downtown. I don't have to have a car — I have a cart that I use to carry my gear to my next gig, even in winter. I haven't owned a car since I moved downtown. Take that, carbon footprint!

Our downtown comes alive in the evenings. I can have an amazing night and not leave 2nd Avenue—you can go there for drinks, dinner, a movie, games night, or any combination you like.

We are loving downtown living. The greatest surprise is that you really are part of a neighbourhood, from shopkeepers who recognize us on dog walks to daily small chats with neighbours at the elevators. For my teen, her friends enjoy visiting because there are always things to do. We enjoy the river valley daily. I work on campus so my commute is a walk or bike ride over the bridge most of the year and a bus ride for a few cold months.

– Janice L. Braden, downtown resident and University of Saskatchewan employee

“Our mission is to serve local business—we’re fighting for the little guys. We serve and empower local businesses—which are the lifeblood of the economy and our communities—to thrive in the digital economy. Staying downtown lets us embody our mission.

Choosing downtown for our headquarters is also about our people. They want to live somewhere small enough to be able to afford to make a home, but large enough to provide all the amenities. People from other countries come to Vendasta for their careers, but Saskatoon really seals the deal — to be able to live in vibrant place that is also safe and with a reasonable cost of living.

– Jacqueline Cook,
Chief Strategy Officer,
Vendasta Technologies

Everyone is so supportive downtown. We're all small businesses on 2nd Avenue and it really makes it feel like a community. Amazing how many servers, bar staff and other owners come here and support us. Visitors to the city ask for recommendations of other places to go, and we send them to other small businesses that are doing one-of-a-kind things.

Planners and urbanists talk of the sustainability and liveability of a 20 minute city - where one's daily needs and interests are within a 20 minute walk. Living on the edge of downtown Saskatoon allows us to work and play within that context. We wouldn't want to experience our city any other way.

I connected more with downtown than other parts of the city because it's so dynamic. There are lots of options to explore—restaurants and stores—I love going for a walk and discovering new things. I also love exploring along the river. It's easy to fall in love with this city.

The new office towers, Alt Hotel and condos at River Landing—combined with the Remai Modern Art Gallery and the Perspehone Theatre right across the street give Saskatoon the best downtown development of any city in North America. We may be the largest customer of downtown hotels – not a week goes by that we don't hold a meeting, training session or celebration which brings in people from out of town. We are proud to show off our downtown to people from all over Canada – and this place holds up. We get to be not only residents of downtown, but also hosts.

– Carey Tufts, Director, Marketing and Communications Strategy Federated Co-operatives Limited

There is a certain energy that comes with being located in a city centre and our downtown campus is right on that pulse. Saskatchewan Indian Institute of Technologies (SIIT) is a major contributor to the culturally vibrant landscape of Saskatoon- with staff and students representing 74 First Nations, Metis, Inuit, and non-Indigenous people. Our students are engaged in trades, industrial, business, IT, health, community studies, and adult basic education programs. They are accessing employment services at our Career Centre. We look forward to a bright future downtown and the many opportunities that it offers our alumni.
