

About MISTAWASIS NÊHIYAWAK

“The Cree ancestors of the Mistawasis Band migrated to present-day Saskatchewan from the woodlands of eastern Manitoba and the Great Lakes area of Ontario in the 17th and 18th centuries. Mistawasis First Nation was named after the Band’s first chief, Chief Mistawasis, who...was head chief of the Prairie Tribe and was known to other Tribes as Sak-kaw-wen-o-wak. Traditionally, the way of life was to follow and hunt buffalo, and depopulation of the herds required a survival change for the Tribe. With the signing of Treaty 6, Chief Mistawasis brought about a new way of life for the future of his people”
